Arden®

A Giant on 4 Wheels
Arden Range Rover AR7

The latest project from the house of Arden is the Arden AR7 based on the Range Rover LM. A vehicle which because of its proportions and English charm posed a special challenge to both the Design and Arden Development teams. As is the case with the Arden AR6 the complete front bumper is replaced with a totally new designed front Apron. The incorporated stainless steel grills and air vents not only emphasise the powerful and dynamic appearance, but also provide efficient air cooling to the cooling units behind.

Power and dynamic with well balanced proportions

The aerodynamic lift to the front axle is markedly reduced due to the deeper lying lines especially at higher speeds. The line created by the approximately 3 cm on each side widened front apron is continued via the widened wheel arches and side sills through to the newly developed rear apron. This completes the powerful appearance of the new AR7.

The AR7 body kit blends fantastically with the harmonic design of the Range Rover and it appears as if both are out of the same mould. The complete Arden AR7 Aerodynamic packet improves, especially in the high speed regions, the handling of this SUV, particularly when combined with the inclusive 22" aluminium wheels (optional 23").

since 1972

Arden®

The Sports Silencers exclusive made for the AR7 and finished by hand integrate perfectly into the rear apron.

The LED-daytime driving lamps comply with the future European standards and are harmoniously integrated above the air intakes left and right.

Also under the bonnet the Arden Engineers have developed major modifications. The top version is the well tested in the AR6 engine, developed to 4,5 litres from 4,2. With this unit is the power increased to 480 hp, that enable the Range Rover to achieve acceleration figures normally found in sports cars.

So that the AR7 can be brought to a halt just as effectively, Arden incorporates a braking system with 6 pistons at the front and 4 at the rear, which distribute their power onto the ventilated and perforated brake discs.

Arden Engine Performance Increase

Performance and torque are of great importance for fun and dynamic driving. Quality and balance of the engine, longevity and ease of maintenance, was the number 1 driving the development of this combination.

When optimising the motor management system for performance increase, the main focus lies in gaining a rich torque characteristic without interfering with engine efficiency. All diesel modifications carried out by us remain within emission control limits.

Based on our long development experience with the well-known 4.2 litre Jaguar engine, you will especially profit from the new Range Rover V8 generation engine. Motor electronics, air inlet and fuel systems are carefully and finely matched allowing for a harmonized development of power and an excellent quality and balance of the engine.

Arden Interior - Individuality for your Range

Arden enhances the interior with various elements because customers predominantly see their Arden Range Rover from the inside. All interior work is carried out in Arden's own saddlery. Customer requests are manufactured with the highest precision and attention to detail. Every request – no matter how extraordinary – is a welcome challenge. The high-quality realisation of this challenge is Arden's uppermost goal. Leather and Alcantara are custom-tailored in every desired color and various exotic woods are processed. The experienced Arden team also manufactures chrome-, carbon-, aluminum- and piano-paint applications for their customers.
